

NORTHERN TRIBUNE.

Published at the Postoffice at Cheboygan
Michigan (second class matter)

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1883.

IMPORTANT TO READERS.

On and after January 1st, 1884, the subscription price to the NORTHERN TRIBUNE will be reduced to $1.50 per annum, invariably in advance. To all new subscribers, prior to January 1st, 1884, the TRIBUNE will be furnished from date of subscription to January 1st, 1885, for the price of one year's subscription. All subscribers who have paid beyond January 1st, 1884, will be credited for such sum as may be due them on subscription at that date, at the reduced rate.

CHEBOYGAN MATTERS.

Cleveland's 197,071 majority was elevated.

Printing of all kinds neatly and cheaply done at the TRIBUNE job office.

Democrats claimed everything but the people voted their claims fraudulent.

O. M. Clement has lit out for Detroit to get goods to keep abreast with the demand.

J. M. French, proprietor of the Grand Central, returned from a business trip to Detroit Sunday.

Sam presses and a complete stock of paper, card board, envelopes, etc., enables the TRIBUNE job office to turn out work promptly and cheaply.

The Council at meeting Tuesday night allowed the Marshal another extension of thirty days in which to collect the village and sewer taxes.

Mr. Davidson will close his photographic gallery for the winter in about a week from now. All that want photographs taken should improve the chance before it is too late.

John Thomas Nolla, of Chicago, has been here for the past three weeks having a large bill of lumber sawed at the Cheboygan Lumber Co.'s mill. He left for home on last Wednesday. Popular, good company, he won new friends and golden opinions.

All keep a lookout for the excellent musical programme of the "Aftermath" society, which will be ready for the public next Friday evening. There will be other features in connection with the musical which will go to make up as fine an evening's entertainment as the citizens have had the pleasure of hearing in a long time.

John Reid & Co. are amongst our most successful business men. They carry a large stock and with their eyes wide open to the market they square themselves to deal with the public as cheaply as possible. Their trade in groceries is something surprising for this market. New goods are daily received and the crowds that get their supplies from them evidence how strongly they hold their popularity. See their advertisement.

The Fountain Hose Co. No. 3 will have a grand ball at the Opera House on Thanksgiving night the 29th inst. The proceeds of this ball are for the fitting up of their hose house. It is of no expense to the village, it subsisting on the volunteer spirit of our young men. The object is worthy and we trust they will have a rousing crowd from every walk of life. Go by all means, everybody who can, and be sure to take a lady along.

Four hundred years ago to-morrow, Martin Luther saw the light of this world in an obscure village in Saxony. The celebration of the event will have its proper form amongst our brethren who hold him in reverence. Whatever divisions he caused in the Christian church, and from whatever standpoint those differences are viewed, none can deny the great impression he left behind him. The philosophic mind disregards the religious aspects of the case and sees in the causes that resulted in his revolt, the inevitable disintegration of an overshadowing influence. The age that brought the Augustinian Friar to the front computed the necessity of changing the internal policy of Germany. In all the struggle of that remarkable period Luther ever spoke of the great Charles V with fondness. When the Augsburg conference was proposed a member of the Diet suggested to Charles to put all the disputants for and against, in one house, and when they announced the result, to ask them if they believed what they held, and then and there set fire to the house and burn them up to prove their sincerity. The suggestion received no countenance. In the lapse of time emperor Charles is only known to the educated while Luther holds a place in the familiar knowledge of mankind.

Don't fail to see D. H. Maloney's ad. and don't fail to see his goods, he means business sure as you live.

L. D. Foster, of Leonidas, is visiting friends in Cheboygan.

Robert Banatyne reports the Detour dock is run now by T. C. Anthony.

Something dropped in New York from 137,071 down to Republican victory.

We usually have a tragedy to record this week it is Democratic mortality.

The stormy Petrel of Massachusetts was shot on the wing and has petered out.

H. Chambers the dry goods man started for Detroit on Wednesday. He is out on business.

Thompson Smith has ten camps in the woods. When the mill shuts down there will be several more.

There will be no services in St. James' Church to-morrow, its good rector, the Rev. J. H. Magoffin, being still indisposed.

Mrs. L. T. Clark, the mother of W. H. Clark, the polite salesman in Clement's shoe house, is come to Cheboygan to reside.

Salt river is monopolized by Democrats. These old tars have navigated the stream 25 years and competition with them is out of the question.

The Melville Bros. are in full tide with a stock of choice groceries. They have also a bakery attached. They solicit the patronage of the public and trust in its judgment and their own fair dealing. See their ad.

Capt. Chas. E. Kirtland, part owner of the Leviathan and other vessels, has sailed for a generation, and for his superior qualities of head and heart, aside from his skill as a sailor, is exceedingly popular on land and on water. Cheboygan is always glad to see him.

The services of the Independent Church last Sunday evening were complete. The Opera House was well filled and the music was very fine. Rev. A. W. Nesbitt preached an able discourse, having close attention and arousing genuine interest in his hearers. His theme was "Man's Mission on Earth."

The social party and oyster supper given by the P. R. P. S. club at the Fountain house Tuesday evening was a very pleasant affair throughout. The managers were untiring in looking after the pleasure of their guests, and music furnished by Prof. Barnhardt's orchestra, and the supper by the genial proprietor of the Fountain was all that could have been asked for. When the Pigeon River Peavy Slingers give another hop they are sure of a big crowd.

Tuesday afternoon A. P. McKinnon run 200 pieces of timber over the dam and boomed them just below, intending the next day to run them into a boom below the Third street bridge. He visited the boom at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening and found it all right. During the night the boom broke and the timber went out into the straits. Wednesday the tugs Duncan City, Pendell and R. C. Wilson picked the most of it up and brought it back into the harbor. Mr. McKinnon is out the expense of recovering it, which is a considerable amount.
